Max, was a vibrant little boy who loved Star Wars, Legos and sushi. Two days before Halloween, at the age of five, he was diagnosed with one of the rarest, deadliest, and most aggressive forms of cancer-Diffuse Intrinsic Pontine Glioma (DIPG). Less than 10% of the 100-150 kids diagnosed each year live beyond 18 months from diagnosis. In Max's case, he survived only nine more months, until the fourth of July.

Out of love for Max and the determination to help other families facing this cancer diagnosis, Max's family and friends established The Max Lacewell Foundation to bring awareness and find a cure for brain stem glioma tumors. Over the last four years, our 100% volunteer run organization has raised over $550,000 for Lurie Children's Hospital of Chicago with the hopes of ultimately establishing a research scholar dedicated to DIPG.
